

Marshfield DoorSystems Announces New Member of Senior Management

Marshfield, WI Feb 24, 2010– Marshfield DoorSystems, the market leader in the commercial wood door manufacturing industry, providing high-quality, premium architectural doors and door components, recently announced the newest member of its senior management team.

Effective March 1, 2010, Jason Pulliam will become Marshfield DoorSystems' Senior Vice President of Sales & Marketing for its commercial door division.

“It is with great pleasure and enthusiasm that I announce our new member of the Marshfield DoorSystems senior management and congratulate Jason for joining our team,” said Don Bergman, CEO of Marshfield DoorSystems. All Marshfield commercial door field sales, inside sales and marketing functions will report to him.”

Pulliam developed an outstanding track record of multiple key promotions throughout his 16 distinguished years of work at Ingersoll-Rand which included managing field sales, customer service and specification writing disciplines. This extensive managerial experience in commercial openings manufacturing has well prepared Pulliam for his career at Marshfield DoorSystems.

About Marshfield DoorSystems

Marshfield DoorSystems offers the commercial openings industry more than three million possible product combinations of doors on a "make-to-order" basis and has been manufacturing wood-based commercial doors for over 110 years. For more information contact Marshfield DoorSystems at 800-869-3667 or visit www.marshfielddoorsystems.com